CAREER SUMMARY OF TEACHING EXPERIENCE AND STUDENTS' EVALUATIONS

Includes courses taught at UNC, ASU, FIU, CWRU, and CU from August 1997 through June 2018

	Courses developed	Sections taught	Total students	Average class size	Instructor ratings ¹
Graduate	8	46	1655	36.0	4.06
Undergraduate	5	24	740	30.8	4.42
ALL	13	70	2395	34.2	4.18

¹ Instructor ratings are a widely used single item measure of overall effectiveness. Student ratings are shown on a 5-point scale with 5 represents the highest rating and 1 represents the lowest rating; reverse scoring used for ASU to achieve consistency in scaling across university faculty appointments. A similar item was used at all Universities although averages vary across programs, courses, and Universities. At my current appointment (Clemson), my average instructor ratings are 4.19 for graduate (8 MBA sections) and 4.46 for undergraduate student evaluations (9 Professional Sales undergraduate sections).

CORPORATE AND MILITARY EXPERIENCE

PROCTER & GAMBLE

1992-1995

Operations Manager – Customer Business Development Team (Top 10 Account)

Evaluated as a top performer. Promoted early to a leadership role in a strategic account team centered on long-term relationship building effort with a P&G top 10 account: 3 customer divisions with coverage across 5 US states (GA, AL, TX, LA, and MS); over $300 million in P&G revenues. Responsibilities included sales, marketing, strategic account management, business development, operations management, and training. Managed nine direct reports. Led Efficient Consumer Response effort: category management, activity-based costing, and continuous replenishment. Served as category captain for buying centers.

Account Executive – U.S. Corporate, Special Projects, Sales Technology

Promoted early to liaison role between brand and US sales to improve capabilities and effectiveness of US sales force. Developed information technology solutions to improve US sales force performance (“sales technology”). Benchmarked best practices of high performing teams (e.g. Walmart, Kroger, Target, and other strategic account teams). Contributed to organizational design projects. Led prototyping, testing, and roll-out of proprietary software.

- Redesigned the Operations Manager’s role on P&G’s cross-functional customer teams which led to improved strategic account penetration and better coordination within strategic accounts and with a corporate function (e.g. CBD with supporting functions).
- Developed technology-based sales mastery program and proprietary software evaluation application. Led presentation to the VP of US Sales and achieved full approval for launching a program that provided training and assessment on sales skills.

Account Manager / MBA Intern – Paper Products

Built relationships with wholesalers and a major retail chain that represented 15% of grocery sales in the region and sold $4.5 million in P&G brands. Guided others to improve capabilities with new technologies and selected as a sales trainer to provide instruction in several elements of onboarding new hires in “FastStart” program. Participated in recruitment program to attract, evaluate and select candidates for customer business development positions.

- Drove up to $100,000 in annual cost savings by performing a cost/benefit analysis of wholesale accounts and distinguishing between profitable/unprofitable customers. Analyzed costs related to sales tactics (sales calls, tele sales, etc.) and aligned unit’s focus on profitable and effective levels of consultative selling and customer service support.
- Boosted paper product sales by 20+% over previous year’s sales through market growth, and improvements in distribution, pricing, shelving and merchandising presence across account’s retail outlets.
- Increased team’s sales success rate by 30% and account penetration by 22%; doubled in-store display presence by developing and employing a sales forecasting model and presentation; model used scanner data to predict store-by-store case sales across P&G’s product mix and was instrumental to the team’s recognition as “best team in the market.”

PEPSICO, INC. (KFC DIVISION)

1990-1991

Area Manager

Evaluated as a top performer. Joined PepsiCo’s restaurant division’s management development program which helped facilitate transitioning military leadership skills to the corporate context before commencing MBA studies. Assumed $7+ million P&L responsibility for ten restaurants (up to 200 employees). Managed ten unit managers and all aspects of the business, including operations management, staffing, purchasing, and local marketing efforts.

- Increased sales by 15% and profits by 25% within one year and positioned one restaurant as achieving the highest volume in the entire $5 billion Southeastern Division by creating rewarding team culture linked to area and unit performance.
- Exceeded employee retention targets in the high turnover environment by 45% and boosted customer satisfaction scores on both in-store/mail-in survey responses. Managed remodeling conversion of retail operating units as part of the KFC renaming campaign.
- Developed and implemented performance system linking individual performance to restaurant-level contributions to sales/profits.

UNITED STATES ARMY - 101ST AIRBORNE DIVISION

1985-1990

Captain, Infantry – Brigade Air Operations Officer – Battalion Air Operations Officer Mortar Platoon Leader – Rifle Platoon Leader

Evaluated as a top performer during service in 3d Brigade, 187th Regiment (Rakkasans).

- Developed and led presentations on strategic-level plans during exercises involving thousands of soldiers, hundreds of US Army helicopters, and US Air Force planes. Wrote first ever standard operating procedures for Brigade level Air Assault Operations, which was publicly lauded by GEN Hugh Shelton.
- Deployed 3000+ member task force within 18 hours of notification during training exercises and was prepared as US first strike task force for worldwide military crisis response situations. Managed a $3 million annual budget and oversaw six direct reports.
- Led 40-person rifle and 27-person mortar platoon including responsibilities for professional and personal welfare.
- Honored with two Army Commendation Medals, two Army Achievement Medals, and an Army Service Ribbon.
